

The Bilingual Child and His Personal Development in the Czech School System is an academic paper concerning the educational and psychological aspects of the bilingual children education and development. The first part looks at three main themes - the language, thinking and identity development of the bilingual child. The second part describes the results of a small research on the advantages or possible disadvantages of bilingualism for a child attending a Czech elementary school.